

GERMANS DESERT MITAU AND DRAW BACK FROM RIGA

Hardest Campaign of Winter
to Take Place Along the
Eastern Front

London Line Strengthened Two-Fold
By Arrival of Fresh Troops, Am-
munitions and Big Guns—Russia
Preparing for New Offensive.

BY MR. L. KERN

London, Nov. 27 (By United Press)
—Watch Russia.

This is the word that came today from a reliable source. It lends strength to the rumors that have been circulating among military men for several days that the eastern front will produce one of the greatest campaigns of this winter. Reports that the Germans have evacuated Mitau and are drawing back along a wide front from the Riga region brought further confirmation.

It is no longer a military secret here that the Russian line has been strengthened twofold by the arrival of fresh troops, large supplies of ammunition and big guns. The war in the Balkans now engrossing public attention will soon fade from the limelight, it is believed here. The Franco-Flanders front is expected to produce no more big drives from either side until next spring. The task of furnishing the real talk of the war this winter, according to London rumors, is reserved for the Czar's new armies.

Russia is preparing for a new offensive, it is hinted here, that will sweep down on a narrow front to ward Prussia. Corps after corps of the new Russian legions powerfully equipped are moving toward the Russian front ready to join hands with Germany's worst enemy, winter. Reports that the German and Austrian tanks in the east are beginning to thin are not credited here, but the thing that enabled Germany to make their great drive through Poland last spring and summer—preponderance of heavy guns and munitions—accustomed upon to give the Russians the advantage when they begin to drive their back.

TEUTONS HOLD 100,000 SERBS AS PRISONERS

Serbs Dynamite Blast Furnace

Germans Working Restoring Plant and Mine and Will Soon Have Both Operating at Full Capacity Bulgarian
Manager Missing.

Berlin, Nov. 27. (By United Press)—Serbian prisoners in German, Austrian and Bulgarian hands now number 101,000, headquarters reports to the war office announce today. With the teutonic conquest of the Black Bird Plain 2,000 German and Austrians whom the Serbs had captured were released. The Serbs abandoned them in their flight, the statement said. Dynamiting by the Serbs of the blast furnace, shops and plants belonging to a French copper mining company at Vajecar, the flooding of the mine and the disappearance of the concern's Bulgarian manager are reported in the statement. Destruction of the works is said to have been ordered by the Serbian commander of the district. German experts are now working at the mine, restoring the plant and will soon have both operating again at their full capacity.

NEW SPRINKLING SYSTEM INSTALLED AT LEITZINGER'S

Decreases Possibility of the Building
Being Destroyed by Fire

The Leitzinger building on Market street is being equipped with an automatic system, one of the latest devices for fire extinguishing, which will, when completed, make the building practically indestructible by fire. The system is being installed by the Automatic Sprinkling company of America at a cost of several thousand dollars.

The system is attached to the city water main by a six inch supply line, from which lines of smaller dimensions are extended throughout the entire building, including all small rooms, basement, and the sales rooms. The smaller lines are equipped with automatic valves every ten feet, which in case of fire are opened by the heat of the flames throwing a spray over ten square feet of floor space in the vicinity of the fire.

An alarm valve, placed in the basement through which the water must run, sounds an alarm on both the inside and outside of the building when one of the valves are opened, thereby warning the employees of the fire.

There is also an opening on the outside of the building to which the city fire company can attach their engine to pump water into the system in case of a large fire and fight the flames without the usual large water damage. A system is placed on the outside of the building in case of fire at close range. The valves on this system are so made as to throw a spray on the flames thus preventing it from gaining a headway and also it eliminates the usual large amount of damage from water in case of only a small fire. It also sounds an alarm and smother the flames if one should break out at night when the building is unoccupied. This equipment is the second of its kind in Clearfield, the other being in the Silk Plush mill on Turnpike avenue.

FAMOUS WAR PICTURES TO BE SHOWN TUESDAY NIGHT

Opera House Has Secured Use of
These Wonderful Films

The Progress has arranged to exhibit at the Opera House, Tuesday, November 30, matinee and night, the New York Sun's authentic reproduction in motion pictures of the war in Europe. Full realization of what the neutral Americans have to be thankful for is shown in these wonderful battle films, which have created a sensation wherever shown.

The motion picture camera as a means of recording warfare brings the scenes of strife to our door and makes it possible for us, in our secure position, undisturbed by calamities, to visit the turmoil.

When the New York Sun's pictures were shown at Carnegie hall, New York for an extended season, the great hall was often inadequate to accommodate the great crowds that sought admission. The scenes shown on the 6,000 feet of film would require columns to describe. Among the features shown are Zeppelins flying over the outskirts of Paris; civil panic in the form of a run on a national bank of Brussels; artillery battle outside Louvain; the engagement of Germany and British ships; German army entering Brussels; Belgian-German fight at Namur; surrender of Brussels to the Germans; field guns in action near Antwerp; the blowing up of the bridge at Yser; terror-stricken inhabitants fleeing from the city; the speeding armored motorcars, which have done so much damage to German Uhlans; the armored train at Arvin firing broadside as it passes (the daring photographer was standing on the cab of the engine unprotected) the bombardment of Ghent; motor buses of all nations passing Ypres on the way to Roulers and several hundred other absorbing pictures of the great strife.

For the first time in history non-combatants can sit in the comfort of a theatre chair and witness scenes of civilization in convulsion and of history in the making.

Cavalry and infantry charges are shown with desperate men storming trenches held by equally desperate enemy, artillery duels and earth works, filled with soldiers firing up on each other, lighted trenches are also shown.

The story of the war is given in a sequence of events, which makes the entertainment a liberal education and constitutes full report of the terrible conflict across the water.

There are 6,000 feet of film, and over 100 stirring events, are pictured. A lecturer will explain the pictures, and there will be music.

The matinee will start at 2:30 with second performance at 4 o'clock. The first evening performance starts at 7:30, the second at 9 o'clock. Wherever these pictures have been shown they have made a tremendous sensation. It is expected that the Opera House will be taxed to its capacity and every one should arrange to attend one of the performances.

REPORTS ARE THAT DEER ARE PLENTIFUL THIS YEAR

Larger Numbers of Hunters Than Ever Before in This County

As a result of many of the counties in this section being close to deer hunting, there will be a larger number of hunters in the woods of Clearfield county this year than ever before. Numerous new camps have been constructed on the mountains during the past few months and from reports a large number of hunters from Eastern districts will partly inhabit these during the season.

Deer season opens this year on December 1, but already there are numerous hunters in the mountains doing some prospecting. Early reports state that deer are quite plentiful this year and from every indication there will be a heavier slaughter than usual on account of the increased number of hunters.

ALLIES CONFIDENT KNOCKOUT PUNCH CAN BE PRODUCED

Battle of Champagne Like Sign-
post Pointing The Way to The End

German Losses Amounted to More
Than Three Times Napoleon's at
Waterloo—Marvelous Preparations
Made by Germany for Battle.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With the French Army in Champagne, Oct. 23.—(By Mail.)—Can either the French or German armies now face to face along the Western front, produce a knockout punch? Doubtless the punch is possible but the more one sees of the present fighting line the more is he impressed with the extreme difficulties of the thing.

Not an officer or man here but is firmly convinced that sooner or later the Allies will smash through the German lines to open country beyond. The Champagne drive proves that the blow must be one of the mightiest wallop that ever set the globe a-tremble. Some months ago a general remarked:

"We can break through any time, but the effort would be costly and we must make sure it will be worth the price." The French have just broken the enemy's front and reached German reserve lines. The advance was a prodigy of valor after a miracle of preparation; and the gain, 15 miles long and three miles deep was worth the price because it proved that the Allies task is not hopeless."

The Battle of Champagne was the first fought with perfected trenches—a condition peculiar to this war. Until last November fighting was in the open, but when the armies dug themselves in it was grenade throwing, trench-motor bomb-firing and an occasional bayonet charge.

The Champagne battle was the first great general battle after both sides had turned their positions into veritable forts. It will go down in history as one of the world's most important fights. It is estimated that more than a million men were engaged and that the Germans lost more than three times what Napoleon lost at Waterloo. Such a hurculean effort fortifying being necessary for either side's considerable advance, and Germany's task of defending a Russian front, a Balkan front, and a Western front, makes it impossible for Germany to produce the punch necessary for victory, the French say.

The way from Paris to the fighting front is a series of perfected trenches. To advance, the Germans must storm these trenches one by one. Their capture would be possible only after a cyclonic downpour of explosives. It is said so many shells would be necessary that Germany's output would be taxed to supply this one front.

For three days I have walked the Champagne battlefield, inspecting what were the German positions. Trenches criss-crossed the plains, machine-guns were everywhere, steel turrets with rapid-fire cannon reinforced already strong positions. Barbed wire underbrushed the forests, and beyond every hill crest were entanglements to catch the advancing French unaware. All sorts of man-killing traps were set, one being a trick trench from first to second line. Having lured the French into this the Germans disappear down an unsuspected offshoot and a hidden machine-gun mows down the French.

The one antidote for this is a terrific cannonade which literally turns the whole fighting front, for miles in both directions and miles back of the first lines, into a shambles from which nothing can escape. The guns must now mow down forests, level trenches, blow up turrets and smash entanglements.

FIRST OF SERIES OF MOTION PICTURES AT "Y" TONIGHT

be Shown in Gymnasium

The first of a series of high class motion pictures, which will be shown in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. during the winter months, will be given this evening from seven to ten o'clock under the association management. These pictures are shown for the purpose of establishing a higher standard in motion pictures in Clearfield. Part of the films which will be shown will be of an educational nature but at the same time will be intensely interesting, not only to the adults but also to the children.

Eight of the very best Pathe reels will be shown tomorrow evening. The program will include colored travelogues, clever comedies, nature stories, industrial views, Pathe weekly and interesting dramas, in connection with descriptive folders of the travelogues, and a reading course.

By a special arrangement of the associations with the Pathe company, it is possible for the Y. M. C. A. to show high priced feature films for the same amount as is paid for the ordinary run of pictures. It is the desire of Mr. Lewis, secretary of the local association, to present pictures which will appeal to the fancy of the old as well as the young and at the same time to present pictures which will have a great educational value besides furnishing an evening's amusement for the people of Clearfield.

An admission of ten cents for adults and five cents for children will be charged to defray expenses. The proceeds will go toward the improvements which have been made recently on the building. All lovers of good pictures should attend this entertainment.

LARGE OUTPUT OF CHEESE IN WISCONSIN THIS YEAR

Nearly Twelve Million Pounds Manufactured in Green County

Monroe, Wis., Nov. 27.—(By United Press).—Green County citizens in the last year have manufactured 11,328,995 pounds of Swiss, Limburger, brick and American cheese, valued at $3,786,064.81. One hundred and fifty three factories, three big condensers, three creameries and 38,992 cows (which is 16,000 more cows than humans in the county,) helped make the cheese.

both directions and miles back of the first lines, into a shambles from which nothing can escape. The guns must now mow down forests, level trenches, blow up turrets and smash entanglements.

The French in Champagne did a good job of it. For three days they ran a million shells a day into this area. Effective fire of French field pieces is about four and a half miles and over that much front they made it so hot for the Germans that a German officer declared they were so helpless under the rain of steel there was nothing to do but to crouch under the crumbling shelters and wait for death.

Like the French, the Germans have many reserve lines of trenches, but the French consider that they have taken the German's measure now and that to advance they have only to repeat the Champagne dose. This, they admit, takes time. On the other hand they say they have the time and that the Germans have not; also they can concentrate their efforts while the Germans are compelled to spread theirs over a wide area.

You won't find a single officer out here who will claim that the Battle of Champagne, as big and important as it undoubtedly was, will directly effect the end of the war. But he does claim emphatically, that the battle is like a signpost pointing the way to the end, and that by similar thrusts here and there, the wall across the road will crumble one day and behind it will be only the open highway and victory.

CARDINAL GIBBONS SEES ROCKS TO SPILL

Ford's Visit—Announced—

Baltimore, Nov. 27. (By United Press)—Cardinal Gibbons gave United Press this exclusive statement today. "I could not help but tell Mr. Ford for I told him that I had there are many rocks ahead to prevent the progress of his journey." Ford, the cardinal told together a hour. They caused many rocks to be thrown at the cardinal to prevent his ship owing to the latter's aid.

A statement was given at the conference that "M. J. called to pay his respects and outlined his peace plan as which Cardinal had listened with interest. Ford said this was all he had to say. He left immediately for New York. While Ford was in town he saw many street car advertisements by "preparedness" urging Marylanders to support their campaign on the ground Chesapeake Bay was seriously to attack. He announced that he planned to put some advertisements himself.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27. (By United Press).—"The most foolish ever concocted by the brain of man was the expression of 'General' C. S. Coxy, of Coxy army supply applied to Henry Ford's peace enterprise. Incidentally Coxy said he would be elected the next United States senator from Ohio on a platform that provided plenty of preparedness without costing a cent."

MRS. REED GIVES REPORT ON STATE CONVENTION

Interesting Paper Read Before
Woman's Club Tuesday

At the meeting of the Woman's club held last Tuesday, November 23, an interesting paper on the recent meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs was read by Mrs. G. B. Reed, who represented the Clearfield club on that occasion. Attending the meeting were representatives of the 338 clubs in Pennsylvania, with a combined membership of more than 30,000.

Mrs. Reed's paper was an interesting account of the national meeting, and included many observations on the increasingly large part women are taking in the business of endeavor. It was received with much enthusiasm by the club members.

At this meeting the club recorded a unanimous vote of thanks to the people of Clearfield who have contributed time, money or material towards the fitting out of the new club house on Market street, which is located the new rest room. The club house is now practically fitted out, and is a most attractive and comfortable place.

The Woman's club of Clearfield is in a flourishing condition, and fully equal to the heavy tasks which are to be accomplished in the immediate future.

DANCE—Opera house hall, Wednesday evening, "Dutch" Gosh. 12

WAR PICTURES ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY WAR PICTURES

Through a special arrangement between The Progress and the New York Sun, there will be exhibited at the Opera House on Tuesday, November 30, 6,000 feet of the most thrilling and tragic motion pictures ever taken--The New York Sun's European War Pictures, admittedly the best Motion Pictures of War Scenes ever taken.

Scenes of actual battles, with men falling dead and wounded as the sputtering rapid fire guns pour their deadly stream of steel into the ranks of opposing armies--of thrilling, nerve straining action, of which will hold you in breathless suspense while an armored motor car dashes madly through the zone of fire--of attacks on armored trains, which the intrepid photographer calmly records from the unsheltered engine cab.

Last of all, these pictures will tell you in compelling manner the terrible story of the horror of war. It will show you the desolation which follows in the wake of marching millions, of the misery and want, the pain and suffering--and the uselessness of it.

There will be four performances, at each of which J. W. Halper, the well known lecturer, will describe each scene. Mr. Halper spent months in the war zone with the photographers, and is familiar with the epoch-making which he will describe. Admission will be ten cents for children and twenty-five cents for adults. The matinee shows will be given at 2:30 and 4:00 o'clock and the evening sessions at 7:00 and 9:00 o'clock.

ECONOMY WITH A VENGEANCE.

Last year the administration was compelled to resort to special taxation to cover a treasury deficit of a hundred million dollars. President Wilson personally appeared in congress to read a message urging the passage of the war tax law, and it will be remembered that he used the exigency of the paralyzing effect of the war on foreign trade and consequent "temporary" reduction in revenues as the sole reason for asking congress for extraordinary taxation.

If it were not appalling, contemplation of the economy program of the Democrats (so widely disseminated during the campaign which brought about Wilson's election) would be highly amusing, especially in view of the statement from Secretary McAdoo that the ensuing fiscal year will find the treasury deficit greater than ever. The watchdog of the treasury hitherto announces that additional revenue of $112,806,894 will be required, and suggests forms of special taxation to raise this staggering sum. It should be borne in mind that the present "deficit" is in addition to the one which existed last year, and for which the war tax was levied, the treasury report contemplating the continuance of both the war tax and the sugar tariff. This brings the total deficit, under the economy program, up to two hundred million dollars, in round figures, taking no account of the extraordinary expenditures which will be entailed if congress includes any sum for preparedness in the 1916-17 budget.

To raise the additional funds, Mr. McAdoo suggests increases in income taxes and the inclusion of salaries of one thousand dollars for unmarried men and three thousand dollars for married men in the taxable class. Taxes on gasoline, the horsepower of automobiles, and crude and refined oils completes the program, which is designed to "increase revenues without placing heavy taxation on the people."

Compared with the "wasteful extravagance" of the Republican party, this evidence of Democratic "thrift" is commendable, and will doubtless appeal strongly to the voters next year. As an example of collective unfitness, it should be a strong recommendation to men who care for the financial stability of the country to return the Republican party to power.

GERMANY'S TWO DREADED ENEMIES.

The sinking of the Ancona by an Austrian and the U-107 by a German submarine, after official assurance was given that no more passenger ships would be destroyed without provision for the safety of those on board, may be regarded as a pretty convincing indication that fear of additions to the number of the Allies does not greatly disturb the Teutonic alliance. Possibly such additions are thought to be inevitable and unavoidable in any case. Possibly their importance is discredited owing to lack of preparation for war on the part of aggrieved or protesting neutrals and inasmuch as, under any circumstances, the number of trained and equipped men who can be rushed to meet the Teutons at any time in the near future must necessarily be limited.

But if the Teutons are not disturbed by the prospects of possible additions to the number of allies, there are signs to indicate that they are worried over the decimation of their own armies and the problem of their lessening food supply. A recent estimate of more than three and a half millions in killed, wounded and missing, alleged to have come out of Germany and to be there officially acknowledged, may be untrustworthy, but there can be no doubt that the total of casualties up to the present time is enormous and that such losses can not be continued many months longer without a perceptible weakening of the Teutonic forces. Stories leaking out of Germany represent the people as bitterly complaining of the "thousands who are dying daily" and as contending that there would be more gain in defeat than in "victory" at such a cost. Apparently there is also much complaint that the boasted triumphs of German arms "bring no relief from famine." It is claimed that there is even public complaint in the newspapers, some of them daring to criticize the government's management of everything, including the food supply. Not only the social Democrats are represented as assailing the authorities but "hitherto faithful" newspapers such as the Frankfurter Zeitung, the Koelnische Zeitung and others. The government's methods of conserving a lessening food supply appear to be more satisfactory to the officials than to a hungry people.

Such stories may be full of exaggeration, it is probably probable that the continuing heavy loss in battle causes grave concern and that the food problem, with foreign trade so largely cut off, becomes more and more embarrassing. These may be regarded as two enemies which the most unscrupulous military efficiency can not overcome, and they would lead to foreshadow defeat even if it were impossible without such aid—provided, of course, that the allies can continue to hold their own and none of them can be driven to conclude a separate peace.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

"Heavily fortified in the time of Turkish administration toward the north, the west and the northeast, Novibazar is today one of the important military points in Serbia," says a primer recently issued by the National Geographic Society. "It lies on the road to the highlands of Montenegro, in a northeast-southwest valley enclosed by mountain walls. It is in this path that the Serbians have so stoutly defended in order to keep open their communications with their allies of the mountain kingdom. Novibazar lies 30 miles northeast of Mitrovica, the northern terminal of the railroad from the Greek port Saloniki. The best way from the railroad terminal to Novibazar runs down the valley of the Morava to Raška, thirty miles north, where it follows up the course of a small tributary, little less than thirty miles to the southwest. Upon this angle, Serbian soldiers based their retreat in toward the domain of King Nicholas. From Novibazar, it is thirty miles to the Montenegrin frontier. The modern city, with a population of 12,000, rises on the site of the ancient Serbian city of Rastia. It marks the center of old Serbian power, and, today, it still marks, roughly, the center of the Serbian Black; for, besides the kingdom of Serbia, the Serbian people composes the greater part of the population of Croatia and Slavonia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Dalmatia, and Montenegro. The country round about is rich in old Serbian memories, one of which is the old church of St. Peter and St. Paul, in which Stephen Nemanja, king of Serbia, in 1148, passed from the Roman to the Greek church. It was over this valley road through Novibazar, that the Serbians and Montenegrins led raid after raid against their Ottoman overlords, and it was down this valley that the Serbian Montenegrins retreated to their inaccessible mountain fastness before the pressure of the Turks."

SPORTS NOTES

The Polo Grounds in New York is to be the scene of an all-star football game to be staged by "Ham" Fish, the old Harvard star.

Some major league managers doubtless will be willing to take a chance on Sam Crawford, should the Detroit Tigers give the "Walrus Barber" the gate.

Champion Freddie Welsh expresses a willingness to go to war with Ad Wiggat, the former title-holder, after his battle with Joe Mandel.

A movement has been started at St. Joseph, Mo., to build a $2,000,000 concrete automobile speedway.

There have been many varieties of meat tickets in sport, but has any one ever carried around the equal of Peter Scott, Tommy Murphy's twin.

Now that the foot ball season has closed we scribes will return to the work of describing the horrors of base ball warfare. Isn't it dreadful? One nice thing about the wrestling game is that every grappler is a champion. He is always the champion of some place or another.

Washington and Lee University foot ball team has lost but one game in two years. Cornell having taken the Generals into camp for the single defeat.

Matt Wells' fancy work in his recent bout shows the English light to be some distance from the "drooping out" station.

There are some persons who maintain that Harvard and Yale are the whole works in intercollegiate athletics, but the inhabitants of Ithaca, N. Y., are not among the number.

Outside of getting rid of his entire bunch of Brewers, sixteen in all, President Timme of the Milwaukee club will make no changes in his team.

With the aid of 21 cameras and three motion picture outfits, Billy Hayward, athletic trainer at Oregon University, catches his men in action and then uses the plates and films to discover the defects in the work of the athletes.

Says Captain Johnny Evers of Captain Eddie Mahan, the Harvard griddler: "Mahan is not only a great foot ball player, but is also the most likely looking base ball player I have seen in some time."

The Irish-American A. C., of New York will not be represented by a team.

DON'T BE THIN AND SKINNY

New Treatment Will Make You Fat
 "I have been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable processes brought about by use of Tonic Tablets so I decided to try them myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just forty pounds during the last forty days, and never felt stronger. Tonic Tablets are a powerful inducer to nutrition, increases cell-growth, food, increases the number of blood-corpuscles and as a necessary result builds up muscles, and solid healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure."

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness, this remarkable treatment may prove a revelation. It is a beauty maker as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener.

Go to your druggist and get a box of Tonic Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Tonic Tablets freshen you and make you feel like life is worth living.

Tonic Tablets cost $1.00 for a 15-days' treatment, at druggists, or mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.

IF BACKACHE OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Not less meat also take glass of Salt before eating breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them. Flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly.

At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomachache gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water, also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with bicarbonate and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 28, 1915.

First of the Lesson, Amos v. 1-15. Memory Verses, 14, 15—Golden Text, Jer. xliii, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. O. M. Stearns.

The message of Jonah was to gentiles, suggestive of foreign missions; that of Amos was to Israel, and therefore a home mission lesson reminding us of the need of the church today to be awakened to see her privileges and opportunities and responsibilities. The sin of Israel and her needs were not different from those of believers now. They bore the name of Jehovah, but were false to Him and worshiped idols. "They know not to do right, saith the Lord" (iii, 10). Therefore the Lord said, "Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with heaven, . . . for this is the will of the Lord" (iv, 4, 5). Heaven is always a type of evil. Because of the sin in their professed worship of God He said, "I hate, I despise your feast days," "I will not accept nor regard your offerings" (v, 21-23). Although they outwardly kept new moons and Sabbath days their hearts were longing for days to be over that they might sell corn and wheat and grow rich by fraud, giving small measure and taking in as much money as possible (viii, 4, 5).

Consider the growing rich by fraud that abounds today even among those who held high positions in the church, the oppression of the poor, the formalism in worship, the false teaching that all are children of God, that Jesus Christ was only one of the sons of God, better than the others, but not God; that there is no hell, no lake of fire; that if people are not saved in this life they can be in the next and that a God of love will never allow any one to perish eternally; the Bible cannot be taken literally, it does not mean what it says—consider all these heathen things and then think how God in His mercy sent forth a Daniel and Shadrach from the heart of Africa and a William Sunday from the baseball field to show His people their sins and to uphold the honor of His word.

How does the Lord plead by Amos? He reminded them how He had brought them out of Egypt, led them forty years in the wilderness, given them the laws of others, raised up prophets and Nazirites from among their sons and revealed to them His purposes by His prophets (ii, 10, 11; iii, 7; ix, 7). Therefore He would have them seek Him and live, assuring them of abundant pardon if only they would turn to Him with the whole heart (v, 4, 6, 14; ix, 14, 15). He also pointed them onward, as He always did and still does, to the future glory, for in spite of all the sin of Israel it is the purpose of God to restore Israel and bless all nations through them. He will raise up the prophets of David (ix, 11), and James and at the great council at Jerusalem that would be after He had gathered the church, or, as he put it, taken out of the Gentiles a people for His name. Then he said that all the Gentiles should after that be gathered (Acts xv, 16-18). Now how is the very last verse of Amos prophetic the Lord said that the word that they would build their waste cities and habitation; that He would plant them upon their land and that they would no more be pulled up out of it (ix, 12-15). Abraham was encouraged and sustained by the assurance of the reward. David by the kingdom, Paul by the glory to be revealed and our Lord Himself by the joy set before Him. I know of no way by which the church of today can be turned from its worldliness and iniquities so successfully as by setting clearly before her the great love of God in Christ Jesus, the greatness of the salvation He has provided and the glory of the kingdom to which we are called.

Men are trying to remedy the evils that exist, to reform or uplift the race, by being a kingdom of peace on earth by their own efforts. But they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither understand they His counsel" (Mic. vi, 12). They do not know that the babe of Bethlehem was born to rule in Israel and that there can be no kingdom of peace on earth till He shall come again (Mic. v, 2-4). People are so filled with their own thoughts and ways, just as Israel was, that they will not be agreed with God and therefore cannot walk with Him (Amos iii, 2). Because many preachers in pulpits and teachers in seminaries are turning away from God to the wisdom of men there is a famine of hearing the words of the Lord (Amos viii, 11). As in the past times, those who have knowledge of God are disobedient and asleep and must be awakened. As it is written in Isa. v, 14, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." "Do not suppose, but understand that the will of the Lord is" (Eph. i, 11, 12). It is high time to wake out of sleep, for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. The night is far spent, the day is at hand" (Rom. xiii, 11, 12). The whole world is in the wickedness; it is an evil time from which the Lord desires to deliver us (I John v, 19; Gal. i, 4). All things indicate as never before that the end of this evil time is near and that it is a time to be awakened into God from all evil.

ADMIRAL BEATTY TO BE PLACED ON THE RETIRED LIST

Most Humane Admiral Has Been In Active Service Twenty-five Years

Was Commander of Washington Navy Yard and Naval Gun Factory—Commander of Atlantic Fleet Since 1910.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The navy is about to lose one of its most efficient and most popular officers in the person of Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty who will be placed on the retired list tomorrow on account of having reached the age of sixty-two years, which is the limit for active service.

In naval circles Admiral Beatty is familiarly called "Charity" Beatty. He isn't the first man to be nicknamed "Charity." But the title varies in meaning. Sometimes it is applied in irony to an officer who is merciless in punishment and quick to suspect wrong doing.

In Beatty's case it was given because he has always tried to look on a delinquent's better side. He has never hesitated in punishment when that seemed necessary. But when his flag was transferred to a new ship about a year ago one of the officers made this little speech in the wardroom:

"I have served upon a flagship ever since I graduated at Annapolis. And he is the most humane admiral I ever sailed under."

Admiral Beatty dates back to the old-time days of the Northwest. He was born in the little town of Azatlan, Wis., November 26, 1853. Four years later his father decided to trek for Minnesota, where the prospects ahead seemed brighter. There was only one way in which to make that journey in those days. So the elder Beatty yoked four oxen to a Conestoga wagon, and the cortege swayed and rumbled off into the wilderness.

The Beatty's settled at Mantorville, Minn., where some time later the father opened a small country store. Here the future admiral spent his boyhood and early youth. Working in the store and doing chores around the home left him little time for play outside of school hours. He had to tramp more than a mile to the school house and in winter it was frequently necessary for him to battle through the snow drifts all the way to the school house door.

Beatty secured an appointment to Annapolis in 1871. He graduated four years later and became an ensign on the Richmond, on which Gen. Grant made a portion of his trip around the world.

During the Spanish war Beatty was stationed on a training ship at San Francisco, and it began to seem he would play no part in that struggle. Then Admiral Dewey ramped into the Spanish fleet at Manila, to come to the conclusion later that it was quite feasible for the Spaniards to destroy his fleet by the use of their heavy guns on shore—if they only dared. He lay at anchor and waited for reinforcements for a weary time.

Beatty was given command of the monitor Monterey and ordered to join Dewey. Some called the Monterey a submarine. One of the thrilling stories of that time was of the Monterey wallowing through the Pacific billows. She could not carry nearly enough coal to make the voyage under her own steam, and was towed a great part of the way. The flooding waves put out the fires under her boilers half a dozen times. Sailors still believe that her arrival at Manila without foundering enroute was one of the many miracles of the Spanish war. When the Monterey arrived Manila surrendered.

Beatty was promoted through the various grades of the service and attained the rank of captain in 1908. In that year he commanded the battleship Wisconsin in the famous world tour of the American fleet. His later career, including his services at Tampico last year while in command of the third division of the North Atlantic fleet, is well known to all newspaper readers.

Admiral Beatty is known among the officers and men of the service as a quiet, kindly, scholarly man, who seemed peculiarly well suited by his assignment when he was placed in charge of the Naval Library in this city.

But Beatty's chief value to the navy has been as an expert on ordnance. As commandant of the navy yard at Washington and later as superintendent of the naval gun factory he had an opportunity to aid in making the big gun of the modern American warships the equal of any big gun in the world. He served as superintendent of the naval gun factory for more than two years, until his assignment to command a division of the Atlantic fleet in 1910.

COMMITTEE MEETS TO DEVISE SECRET CAUCUS METHOD

Closure Rule to Cut Off Debate Wanted by Administration Leaders

New System Would Enable Majority To Rush Scheme Onto Statute Books Without Proper Consideration—Shortest Session on Record Looked For.

Washington, Nov. 27.—A committee of five administration senators will meet in a secret session here Monday in an effort to devise a scheme whereby secret caucus methods can be made to prevail in the senate as they prevailed in the house during the last congress.

The purpose of this committee outwardly is to prepare a closure rule which will be adopted by the senate so as to cut off debate whenever the majority wants it cut off. The real purpose, it is alleged by the enemies of the administration, is to break down the last barrier to any scheme which a majority may wish to rush through congress and onto the statute books without giving it due consideration.

The senators leading the fight for closure are Stone, of Missouri; Walsh, of Montana; Owen, of Oklahoma; Kern, of Indiana, and Martin, of Virginia.

If they succeed in their purpose it is said to be the intention of President Wilson and his party lieutenants to make the approaching session one of the shortest on record. If they fail there is every likelihood that it will be one of the longest.

It is said to be the plan of the senators to include in the privileged motions of the senate one the previous question. In every other national deliberative body in the world, except the United States senate, a member, by "moving the previous question," and carrying it forthwith, puts a stop to all debate and brings about a vote on the main question that happens to be pending.

The theory of closure is that it will facilitate the transaction of legislative business and prevent the minority from adopting filibusters and other forms of dilatory tactics to block legislation.

During the first seventeen years of the existence of the United States senate the "previous question" was permitted. In 1806 it was eliminated from the list of recognized motions and has never been put back, despite the fact that attempts to put it back have been made periodically ever since 1841.

Thus it has been that during the last seventy odd years and at every session of the senate, almost the majority, be it Democrats, Republicans, or Whigs, has stormed at the obstructive tactics of the minority and threatened closure, but closure has never been passed.

Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, chairman of the special committee which meets here Monday to frame a closure rule to submit to the senate, a few years ago availed himself of the absence of a closure rule by filibustering on the bill to admit New Mexico as a state.

Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, who was one of the leaders of the Republican opposition to closure in a fight last spring, once declared, in a remarkable argument favoring closure: "To vote without debating may be hasty, may be ill considered, may be rash, but to debate and never vote is imbecility."

Inasmuch as the senate has been regarded as a continuing body, it has never been fit to formally adopt at each session the rules of the preceding session. Consequently the same rules under which the present body of ninety-six senators has been working are the same those adopted in 1806, when there were only thirty-four senators and the last revision of the rules was made.

It is now proposed by several of the senators who comprise the closure committee that the vice-president, if agreeable, shall rule that the senate is not a continuing body, and must adopt its rules every session. This would enable the Democratic majority to put through a closure rule in the form of the "previous question" motion.

GERMANS DESERT MITAU AND DRAW BACK FROM RIGA

Hardest Campaign of Winter
to Take Place Along the
Eastern Front

London Line Strengthened Two-Fold
By Arrival of Fresh Troops, Am-
munitions and Big Guns—Russia
Preparing for New Offensive.

BY MR. L. KERN
United Press Staff Correspondent
London, Nov. 27 (By United Press)
—Watch Russia.

This is the word that came today from a reliable source. It lends strength to the rumors that have been circulating among military men for several days that the eastern front will produce one of the greatest campaigns of this winter. Reports that the Germans have evacuated Mitau and are drawing back along a wide front from the Riga region brought further confirmation.

It is no longer a military secret here that the Russian line has been strengthened twofold by the arrival of fresh troops, large supplies of ammunition and big guns. The war in the Balkans now engrossing public attention will soon fade from the limelight, it is believed here. The Franco-Flanders front is expected to produce no more big drives from either side until next spring. The task of furnishing the real talk of the war this winter, according to London rumors, is reserved for the Czar's new armies.

Russia is preparing for a new offensive, it is hinted here, that will sweep down on a narrow front to sweep Prussia. Corps after corps of the new Russian legions powerfully equipped are moving toward the Russian front ready to join hands with Germany's worst enemy, winter. Reports that the German and Austrian tanks in the east are beginning to thin are not credited here, but the thing that enabled Germany to make their great drive through Poland last spring and summer—preponderance of heavy guns and munitions—accustomed upon to give the Russians the advantage when they begin to drive their back.

Manager Missing.

Berlin, Nov. 27. (By United Press)—Serbian prisoners in German, Austrian and Bulgarian hands now number 101,000, headquarters reports to the war office announce today. With the teutonic conquest of the Black Bird Plain 2,000 German and Austrians whom the Serbs had captured were released. The Serbs abandoned them in their flight, the statement said. Dynamiting by the Serbs of the blast furnace, shops and plants belonging to a French copper mining company at Vajecar, the flooding of the mine and the disappearance of the concern's Bulgarian manager are reported in the statement. Destruction of the works is said to have been ordered by the Serbian commander of the district. German experts are now working at the mine, restoring the plant and will soon have both operating again at their full capacity.

NEW SPRINKLING SYSTEM INSTALLED AT LEITZINGER'S

Being Destroyed by Fire

The Leitzinger building on Market street is being equipped with an automatic system, one of the latest devices for fire extinguishing, which will, when completed, make the building practically indestructible by fire. The system is being installed by the Automatic Sprinkling company of America at a cost of several thousand dollars.

The system is attached to the city water main by a six inch supply line, from which lines of smaller dimensions are extended throughout the entire building, including all small rooms, basement, and the sales rooms. The smaller lines are equipped with automatic valves every ten feet, which in case of fire are opened by the heat of the flames throwing a spray over ten square feet of floor space in the vicinity of the fire.

An alarm valve, placed in the basement through which the water must run, sounds an alarm on both the inside and outside of the building when one of the valves are opened, thereby warning the employees of the fire. There is also an opening on the outside of the building to which the city fire company can attach their engine to pump water into the system in case of a large fire and fight the flames without the usual large water damage. A system is placed on the outside of the building in case of fire at close range. The valves on this system are so made as to throw a spray on the flames thus preventing it from gaining a headway and also it eliminates the usual large amount of damage from water in case of only a small fire. It also sounds an alarm and smothers the flames if one should break out at night when the building is unoccupied. This equipment is the second of its kind in Clearfield, the other being in the Silk Plush mill on Turnpike avenue.

FAMOUS WAR PICTURES TO BE SHOWN TUESDAY NIGHT

Opera House Has Secured Use of
These Wonderful Films

The Progress has arranged to exhibit at the Opera House, Tuesday, November 30, matinee and night, the New York Sun's authentic reproduction in motion pictures of the war in Europe. Full realization of what the neutral Americans have to be thankful for is shown in these wonderful battle films, which have created a sensation wherever shown.

The motion picture camera as a means of recording warfare brings the scenes of strife to our door and makes it possible for us, in our secure position, undisturbed by calamities, to visit the turmoil.

When the New York Sun's pictures were shown at Carnegie hall, New York for an extended season, the great hall was often inadequate to accommodate the great crowds that sought admission. The scenes shown on the 6,000 feet of film would require columns to describe. Among the features shown are Zeppelins flying over the outskirts of Paris; civil panic in the form of a run on a national bank of Brussels; artillery battle outside Louvain; the engagement of Germany and British ships; German army entering Brussels; Belgian-German fight at Namur; surrender of Brussels to the Germans; field guns in action near Antwerp; the blowing up of the bridge at Yser; terror-stricken inhabitants fleeing from the city; the speeding armored motorcars, which have done so much damage to German Uhlans; the armored train at Arvin firing broadside as it passes (the daring photographer was standing on the cab of the engine unprotected) the bombardment of Ghent; motor buses of all nations passing Ypres on the way to Roulers and several hundred other absorbing pictures of the great strife.

For the first time in history non-combatants can sit in the comfort of a theatre chair and witness scenes of civilization in convulsion and of history in the making.

Cavalry and infantry charges are shown with desperate men storming trenches held by equally desperate enemy, artillery duels and earth works, filled with soldiers firing up on each other, lighted trenches are also shown.

The story of the war is given in a sequence of events, which makes the entertainment a liberal education and constitutes full report of the terrible conflict across the water.

There are 6,000 feet of film, and over 100 stirring events, are pictured. A lecturer will explain the pictures, and there will be music.

The matinee will start at 2:30 with second performance at 4 o'clock. The first evening performance starts at 7:30, the second at 9 o'clock.

Wherever these pictures have been shown they have made a tremendous sensation. It is expected that the Opera House will be taxed to its capacity and every one should arrange to attend one of the performances.

REPORTS ARE THAT DEER ARE PLENTIFUL THIS YEAR

Larger Numbers of Hunters Than
Ever Before in This County

As a result of many of the counties in this section being close to deer hunting, there will be a larger number of hunters in the woods of Clearfield county this year than ever before. Numerous new camps have been constructed on the mountains during the past few months and from reports a large number of hunters from Eastern districts will partly inhabit these during the season.

Deer season opens this year on December 1, but already there are numerous hunters in the mountains doing some prospecting. Early reports state that deer are quite plentiful this year and from every indication there will be a heavier slaughter than usual on account of the increased number of hunters.

ALLIES CONFIDENT KNOCKOUT PUNCH CAN BE PRODUCED

Battle of Champagne Like Sign-
post Pointing The Way to The End

German Losses Amounted to More
Than Three Times Napoleon's at
Waterloo—Marvelous Preparations
Made by Germany for Battle.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With the French Army in Champagne, Oct. 23.—(By Mail.)—Can either the French or German armies now face to face along the Western front, produce a knockout punch? Doubtless the punch is possible but the more one sees of the present fighting line the more is he impressed with the extreme difficulties of the thing.

Not an officer or man here but is firmly convinced that sooner or later the Allies will smash through the German lines to open country beyond. The Champagne drive proves that the blow must be one of the mightiest wallop that ever set the globe a-tremble. Some months ago a general remarked:

"We can break through any time, but the effort would be costly and we must make sure it will be worth the price." The French have just broken the enemy's front and reached German reserve lines. The advance was a prodigy of valor after a miracle of preparation; and the gain, 15 miles long and three miles deep was worth the price because it proved that the Allies task is not hopeless."

The Battle of Champagne was the first fought with perfected trenches—a condition peculiar to this war. Until last November fighting was in the open, but when the armies dug themselves in it was grenade throwing, trench-motor bomb-firing and an occasional bayonet charge.

The Champagne battle was the first great general battle after both sides had turned their positions into veritable forts. It will go down in history as one of the world's most important fights. It is estimated that more than a million men were engaged and that the Germans lost more than three times what Napoleon lost at Waterloo. Such a hurculean effort fortifying being necessary for either side's considerable advance, and Germany's task of defending a Russian front, a Balkan front, and a Western front, makes it impossible for Germany to produce the punch necessary for victory, the French say.

The way from Paris to the fighting front is a series of perfected trenches. To advance, the Germans must storm these trenches one by one. Their capture would be possible only after a cyclonic downpour of explosives. It is said so many shells would be necessary that Germany's output would be taxed to supply this one front.

For three days I have walked the Champagne battlefield, inspecting what were the German positions. Trenches criss-crossed the plains, machine-guns were everywhere, steel turrets with rapid-fire cannon reinforced already strong positions. Barbed wire underbrushed the forests, and beyond every hill crest were entanglements to catch the advancing French unaware. All sorts of man-killing traps were set, one being a trick trench from first to second line. Having lured the French into this the Germans disappear down an unsuspected offshoot and a hidden machine-gun mows down the French.

The one antidote for this is a terrific cannonade which literally turns the whole fighting front, for miles in

be Shown in Gymnasium

The first of a series of high class motion pictures, which will be shown in the auditorium of the Y. M. C. A. during the winter months, will be given this evening from seven to ten o'clock under the association management. These pictures are shown for the purpose of establishing a higher standard in motion pictures in Clearfield. Part of the films which will be shown will be of an educational nature but at the same time will be intensely interesting, not only to the adults but also to the children.

Eight of the very best Pathe reels will be shown tomorrow evening. The program will include colored travelogues, clever comedies, nature stories, industrial views, Pathe weekly and interesting dramas, in connection with descriptive folders of the travelogues, and a reading course.

By a special arrangement of the associations with the Pathe company, it is possible for the Y. M. C. A. to show high priced feature films for the same amount as is paid for the ordinary run of pictures. It is the desire of Mr. Lewis, secretary of the local association, to present pictures which will appeal to the fancy of the old as well as the young and at the same time to present pictures which will have a great educational value besides furnishing an evening's amusement for the people of Clearfield.

An admission of ten cents for adults and five cents for children will be charged to defray expenses. The proceeds will go toward the improvements which have been made recently on the building. All lovers of good pictures should attend this entertainment.

LARGE OUTPUT OF CHEESE IN WISCONSIN THIS YEAR

Nearly Twelve Million Pounds Manu-
factured in Green County

Monroe, Wis., Nov. 27.—(By United Press).—Green County citizens in the last year have manufactured 11,328,995 pounds of Swiss, Limburger, brick and American cheese, valued at $3,786,064.81. One hundred and fifty three factories, three big condensers, three creameries and 38,992 cows (which is 16,000 more cows than humans in the county,) helped make the cheese.

both directions and miles back of the first lines, into a shambles from which nothing can escape. The guns must now mow down forests, level trenches, blow up turrets and smash entanglements.

The French in Champagne did a good job of it. For three days they ran a million shells a day into this area. Effective fire of French field pieces is about four and a half miles and over that much front they made it so hot for the Germans that a German officer declared they were so helpless under the rain of steel there was nothing to do but to crouch under the crumbling shelters and wait for death.

Like the French, the Germans have many reserve lines of trenches, but the French consider that they have taken the German's measure now and that to advance they have only to repeat the Champagne dose. This, they admit, takes time. On the other hand they say they have the time and that the Germans have not; also they can concentrate their efforts while the Germans are compelled to spread theirs over a wide area.

You won't find a single officer out here who will claim that the Battle of Champagne, as big and important as it undoubtedly was, will directly effect the end of the war. But he does claim emphatically, that the battle is like a signpost pointing the way to the end, and that by similar thrusts here and there, the wall across the road will crumble one day and behind it will be only the open highway and victory.

Baltimore, Nov. 27. (By United Press).—Cardinal Gibbons gave United Press this exclusive statement today. "I could not help but tell Mr. Ford for I told him that I had there are many rocks ahead to prevent the progress of his journey." Ford, the cardinal told together a hour. They caused many rocks to be thrown at the cardinal to prevent his visit owing to the latter's speech.

A statement was given at the conference that "M. J. Callahan called to pay his respects and outlined his peace plan as which Cardinal had listened with interest. Ford said this was all he had to say. He left immediately for New York. While Ford was in town he saw many street car advertisements by "preparedness" and urging Marylanders to support their campaign on the ground Chesapeake Bay was seriously to attack. He announced that he planned to give some advertisements himself.

MRS. REED GIVES REPORT ON STATE CONVENTION

Interesting Paper Read Before
Woman's Club Tuesday

At the meeting of the Woman's club held last Tuesday, November 23, an interesting paper on the recent meeting of the State Federation of Woman's clubs was read by Mrs. G. B. Reed, who represented the Clearfield club on that occasion. Attending the meeting were representatives of the 338 clubs in Pennsylvania, with a combined membership of more than 30,000.

Mrs. Reed's paper was an interesting account of the national meeting, and included many observations on the increasingly large part women are taking in the business of endeavor. It was received with much enthusiasm by the club members.

At this meeting the club recorded a unanimous vote of thanks to the people of Clearfield who have contributed time, money or material towards the fitting out of the new club house on Market street, which is located the new rest room. The club house is now practically fitted out, and is a most attractive and comfortable place.

The Woman's club of Clearfield is in a flourishing condition, and fully equal to the heavy tasks which are to be accomplished in the immediate future.

DANCE—Opera house hall, Wednesday evening, "Dutch" Gosh. 12

WAR PICTURES ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY WAR PICTURES

Through a special arrangement between The Progress and the New York Sun, there will be exhibited at the Opera House on Tuesday, November 30, 6,000 feet of the most thrilling and tragic motion pictures ever taken--The New York Sun's European War Pictures, admittedly the best Motion Pictures of War Scenes ever taken.

Scenes of actual battles, with men falling dead and wounded as the sputtering rapid fire guns pour their deadly stream of steel into the ranks of opposing armies--of thrilling, nerve straining action, of which will hold you in breathless suspense while an armored motor car dashes madly through the zone of fire--of attacks on armored trains, which the intrepid photographer calmly records from the unsheltered engine cab.

Last of all, these pictures will tell you in compelling manner the terrible story of the horror of war. It will show you the desolation which follows in the wake of marching millions, of the misery and want, the pain and suffering--and the uselessness of it.

There will be four performances, at each of which J. W. Halper, the well known lecturer, will describe each scene. Mr. Halper spent months in the war zone with the photographers, and is familiar with the epoch-making which he will describe. Admission will be ten cents for children and twenty-five cents for adults. The matinee shows will be given at 2:30 and 4:00 o'clock and the evening sessions at 7:00 and 9:00 o'clock.

ECONOMY WITH A VENGEANCE.

Last year the administration was compelled to resort to special taxation to cover a treasury deficit of a hundred million dollars. President Wilson personally appeared in congress to read a message urging the passage of the war tax law, and it will be remembered that he used the exigency of the paralyzing effect of the war on foreign trade and consequent "temporary" reduction in revenues as the sole reason for asking congress for extraordinary taxation.

If it were not appalling, contemplation of the economy program of the Democrats (so widely disseminated during the campaign which brought about Wilson's election) would be highly amusing, especially in view of the statement from Secretary McAdoo that the ensuing fiscal year will find the treasury deficit greater than ever. The watchdog of the treasury hitherto announces that additional revenue of $112,806,894 will be required, and suggests forms of special taxation to raise this staggering sum. It should be borne in mind that the present "deficit" is in addition to the one which existed last year, and for which the war tax was levied, the treasury report contemplating the continuance of both the war tax and the sugar tariff. This brings the total deficit, under the economy program, up to two hundred million dollars, in round figures, taking no account of the extraordinary expenditures which will be entailed if congress includes any sum for preparedness in the 1916-17 budget.

To raise the additional funds, Mr. McAdoo suggests increases in income taxes and the inclusion of salaries of one thousand dollars for unmarried men and three thousand dollars for married men in the taxable class. Taxes on gasoline, the horsepower of automobiles, and crude and refined oils completes the program, which is designed to "increase revenues without placing heavy taxation on the people."

Compared with the "wasteful extravagance" of the Republican party, this evidence of Democratic "thrift" is commendable, and will doubtless appeal strongly to the voters next year. As an example of collective unfitness, it should be a strong recommendation to men who care for the financial stability of the country to return the Republican party to power.

GERMANY'S TWO DREADED ENEMIES.

The sinking of the Ancona by an Austrian and the U-157 by a German submarine, after official assurance was given that no more passenger ships would be destroyed without provision for the safety of those on board, may be regarded as a pretty convincing indication that fear of additions to the number of the Allies does not greatly disturb the Teutonic alliance. Possibly such additions are thought to be inevitable and unavoidable in any case. Possibly their importance is discredited owing to lack of preparation for war on the part of aggrieved or protesting neutrals and inasmuch as, under any circumstances, the number of trained and equipped men who can be rushed to meet the Teutons at any time in the near future must necessarily be limited.

But if the Teutons are not disturbed by the prospects of possible additions to the number of allies, there are signs to indicate that they are worried over the decimation of their own armies and the problem of their lessening food supply. A recent estimate of more than three and a half millions in killed, wounded and missing, alleged to have come out of Germany and to be there officially acknowledged, may be untrustworthy, but there can be no doubt that the total of casualties up to the present time is enormous and that such losses can not be continued many months longer without a perceptible weakening of the Teutonic forces. Stories leaking out of Germany represent the people as bitterly complaining of the "thousands who are dying daily" and as contending that there would be more gain in defeat than in "victory" at such a cost. Apparently there is also much complaint that the boasted triumphs of German arms "bring no relief from famine." It is claimed that there is even public complaint in the newspapers, some of them daring to criticize the government's management of everything, including the food supply. Not only the social Democrats are represented as assailing the authorities but "hitherto faithful" newspapers such as the Frankfurter Zeitung, the Koelnische Zeitung and others. The government's methods of conserving a lessening food supply appear to be more satisfactory to the officials than to a hungry people.

Such stories may be full of exaggeration, it is probably, but the continuing heavy loss in battle causes grave concern and that the food problem, with foreign trade so largely cut off, becomes more and more embarrassing. These may be regarded as two enemies which the most unscrupulous military efficiency can not overcome, and they would lead to foreshadow defeat even if it were impossible without such aid—provided, of course, that the allies can continue to hold their own and none of them can be driven to conclude a separate peace.

"Heavily fortified in the time of Turkish administration toward the north, the west and the northeast, Novibazar is today one of the important military points in Serbia," says a primer recently issued by the National Geographic Society. "It lies on the road to the highlands of Montenegro, in a northeast-southwest valley enclosed by mountain walls. It is this path that the Serbians have so stoutly defended in order to keep open their communications with their allies of the mountain kingdom."

"Novibazar lies 30 miles northeast of Mitrovica, the northern terminal of the railroad from the Greek port Saloniki. The best way from the railroad terminal to Novibazar runs down the valley of the Morava to Raška, thirty miles north, where it follows up the course of a small tributary, little less than thirty miles to the southwest. Upon this angle, Serbian soldiers based their retreat in toward the domain of King Nicholas."

From Novibazar, it is thirty miles to the Montenegrin frontier. "The modern city, with a population of 12,000, rises on the site of the ancient Serbian city of Rastia. It marks the center of old Serbian power, and, today, it still marks, roughly, the center of the Serbian Black; for, besides the kingdom of Serbia, the Serbian people composes the greater part of the population of Croatia and Slavonia, Bosnia, Herzegovina, Dalmatia, and Montenegro. The country round about is rich in old Serbian memories, one of which is the old church of St. Peter and St. Paul, in which Stephen Nemanja, king of Serbia, in 1148, passed from the Roman to the Greek church. It was over this valley road through Novibazar, that the Serbians and Montenegrins led raid after raid against their Ottoman overlords, and it was down this valley that the Serbian Montenegrins retreated to their inaccessible mountain fastnesses before the pressure of the Turks."

SPORT NOTES

The Polo Grounds in New York is to be the scene of an all-star football game to be staged by "Ham" Fish, the old Harvard star.

Some major league managers doubtless will be willing to take a chance on Sam Crawford, should the Detroit Tigers give the "Wahoo Barber" the gate.

Champion Freddie Welsh expresses a willingness to go to war with Ad Wiggat, the former title-holder, after his battle with Joe Mandel.

A movement has been started at St. Joseph, Mo., to build a $2,000,000 concrete automobile speedway.

There have been many varieties of meat tickets in sportland, but has any one ever carried around the equal of Peter Scott, Tommy Murphy's rival?

Now that the foot ball season has closed, scribes will return to the work of describing the horrors of base ball warfare. Isn't it dreadful? One nice thing about the wrestling game is that every grappler is a champion. He is always the champion of some place or another.

Washington and Lee University foot ball team has lost but one game in two years. Cornell having taken the Generalis into camp for the single defeat.

Matt Wells' fancy work in his recent bout shows the English light to be some distance from the "drooping out" station.

There are some persons who maintain that Harvard and Yale are the whole works in intercollegiate athletics, but the inhabitants of Ithaca, N. Y., are not among the number.

Outside of getting rid of his entire bunch of Brewers, sixteen in all, President Timme of the Milwaukee club will make no changes in his team.

With the aid of 21 cameras and three motion picture outfits, Billy Hayward, athletic trainer at Oregon University, catches his men in action and then uses the plates and films to discover the defects in the work of the athletes.

Says Captain Johnny Evers of Captain Eddie Mahan, the Harvard griddler: "Mahan is not only a great foot ball player, but is also the most likely looking base ball player I have seen in some time."

The Irish-American A. C., of New York will not be represented by a team.

DON'T BE THIN AND SKINNY

New Treatment Will Make You Fat

"I have been thin for years and began to think it was natural for me to be that way. Finally I read about the remarkable processes brought about by use of Tonic Tablets so I decided to try them myself. Well, when I look at myself in the mirror now, I think it is somebody else. I have put on just forty pounds during the last forty days, and never felt stronger. Tonic Tablets are a powerful inducer to nutrition, increases cell-growth, food, increases the number of blood-corpuscles and as a necessary result builds up muscles, and solid healthy flesh, and rounds out the figure."

For women who can never appear stylish in anything they wear because of their thinness, this remarkable treatment may prove a revelation. It is a beauty maker as well as a form builder and nerve strengthener.

Go to your druggist and get a box of Tonic Tablets and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you. Lesson IX.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 28, 1915.

First of the Lesson, Amos v. 1-15. Memory Verses, 14, 15—Golden Text, Jer. xliii, 28—Commentary Prepared by Rev. O. M. Stearns.

The message of Jonah was to gentiles, suggestive of foreign missions; that of Amos was to Israel, and therefore a home mission lesson reminding us of the need of the church today to be awakened to see her privileges and opportunities and responsibilities. The sin of Israel and her needs were not different from those of believers now. They bore the name of Jehovah, but were false to Him and worshiped idols. "They know not to do right, saith the Lord" (iii, 10). Therefore the Lord said, "Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, . . . for this is the will of the Lord" (iv, 4, 5). Leaven is always a type of evil. Because of the sin in their professed worship of God He said, "I hate, I despise your feast days," "I will not accept nor regard your offerings" (v, 21-23). Although they outwardly kept new moons and Sabbath days their hearts were longing for days to be over that they might sell corn and wheat and grow rich by fraud, giving small measure and taking in as much money as possible (viii, 4, 5).

Consider the growing rich by fraud that abounds today even among those who held high positions in the church, the oppression of the poor, the formalism in worship, the false teaching that all are children of God, that Jesus Christ was only one of the sons of God, better than the others, but not God; that there is no hell, no lake of fire; that if people are not saved in this life they can be in the next and that a God of love will never allow any one to perish eternally; the Bible cannot be taken literally, it does not mean what it says—consider all these heathen things and then think how God in His mercy sent forth a Daniel and Shadrach from the heart of Africa and a William Sunday from the baseball field to show His people their sins and to uphold the honor of His word.

How does the Lord plead by Amos? He reminded them how He had brought them out of Egypt, led them forty years in the wilderness, given them the laws of Moses, raised up prophets and Nazarenes from among their sons and revealed to them His purposes by His prophets (ii, 10, 11; iii, 7; ix, 7). Therefore He would have them seek Him and live, assuring them of abundant pardon if only they would turn to Him with the whole heart (v, 4, 6, 14; ix, 14, 15). He also pointed them onward, as He always did and still does, to the future glory, for in spite of all the sin of Israel it is the purpose of God to restore Israel and bless all nations through them. He will raise up the prophets of David (ix, 11), and James and John at the great council at Jerusalem that would be after He had gathered the church, or, as he put it, taken out of the Gentiles a people for His name. Then he said that all the Gentiles should after that be gathered (Acts xv, 16-18). Now how is the very last verse of Amos prophetic the Lord said that the word that they would build their waste cities and inhabit them; but He would plant them upon them and that they would no more be pulled up out of it (ix, 12-15). Abraham was encouraged and sustained by the assurance of the reward. David by the kingdom, Paul by the glory to be revealed and our Lord Himself by the joy set before Him. I know of no way by which the church of today can be turned from its worldliness and iniquities so successfully as by seeking clearly before Him the great love of God in Christ Jesus, the greatness of the salvation He has provided and the glory of the kingdom to which we are called.

Men are trying to remedy the evils that exist, to reform or uplift the race, by being a kingdom of peace on earth by their own efforts. But they know not the thoughts of the Lord, neither understand they His counsel" (Mic. vi, 12). They do not know that the babe of Bethlehem was born to rule in Israel and that there can be no kingdom of peace on earth till He shall come again (Mic. v, 2-4). People are so filled with their own thoughts and ways, just as Israel was, that they will not be agreed with God and therefore cannot walk with Him (Amos iii, 2). Because many preachers in pulpits and teachers in seminaries are turning away from God to the wisdom of men there is a famine of hearing the words of the Lord (Amos viii, 11). As in the past times, those who have knowledge of God are disobedient and asleep and must be awakened. As it is written in Isa. v, 14, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead and Christ shall give thee light." "Do not suppose, but understand that the will of the Lord is" (Eph. i, 11, 12). It is high time to wake out of sleep, for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed. The night is far spent, the day is at hand" (Rom. xiii, 11, 12). The whole world is in the wickedness of sin, it is an evil time from which the Lord desires to deliver us (I John v, 14; Gal. i, 4). All things indicate as never before that the end of this evil time is near and that it is a time to be awakened into God from all evil.

ADMIRAL BEATTY TO BE PLACED ON THE RETIRED LIST

Most Humane Admiral Has Been In Active Service Twenty-five Years

Was Commander of Washington Navy Yard and Naval Gun Factory—Commander of Atlantic Fleet Since 1910.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The navy is about to lose one of its most efficient and most popular officers in the person of Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty who will be placed on the retired list tomorrow on account of having reached the age of sixty-two years, which is the limit for active service.

In naval circles Admiral Beatty is familiarly called "Charity" Beatty. He isn't the first man to be nicknamed "Charity." But the title varies in meaning. Sometimes it is applied in irony to an officer who is merciless in punishment and quick to suspect wrong doing.

In Beatty's case it was given because he has always tried to look on a delinquent's better side. He has never hesitated in punishment when that seemed necessary. But when his flag was transferred to a new ship about a year ago one of the officers made this little speech in the wardroom:

"I have served upon a flagship ever since I graduated at Annapolis. And he is the most humane admiral I ever sailed under."

Admiral Beatty dates back to the old-time days of the Northwest. He was born in the little town of Azatlan, Wis., November 26, 1853. Four years later his father decided to trek for Minnesota, where the prospects ahead seemed brighter. There was only one way in which to make that journey in those days. So the elder Beatty yoked four oxen to a Conestoga wagon, and the cortege swayed and rumbled off into the wilderness.

The Beatty's settled at Mantorville, Minn., where some time later the father opened a small country store. Here the future admiral spent his boyhood and early youth. Working in the store and doing chores around the home left him little time for play outside of school hours. He had to tramp more than a mile to the school house and in winter it was frequently necessary for him to battle through the snow drifts all the way to the school house door.

Beatty secured an appointment to Annapolis in 1871. He graduated four years later and became an ensign on the Richmond, on which Gen. Grant made a portion of his trip around the world.

During the Spanish war Beatty was stationed on a training ship at San Francisco, and it began to seem he would play no part in that struggle. Then Admiral Dewey ramped into the Spanish fleet at Manila, to come to the conclusion later that it was quite feasible for the Spaniards to destroy his fleet by the use of their heavy guns on shore—if they only dared. He lay at anchor and waited for reinforcements for a weary time.

Beatty was given command of the monitor Monterey and ordered to join Dewey. Some called the Monterey a submarine. One of the thrilling stories of that time was of the Monterey wallowing through the Pacific billows. She could not carry nearly enough coal to make the voyage under her own steam, and was towed a great part of the way. The flooding waves put out the fires under her boilers half a dozen times. Sailors still believe that her arrival at Manila without foundering enroute was one of the many miracles of the Spanish war. When the Monterey arrived Manila surrendered.

Beatty was promoted through the various grades of the service and attained the rank of captain in 1908. In that year he commanded the battleship Wisconsin in the famous world tour of the American fleet. His later career, including his services at Tampico last year while in command of the third division of the North Atlantic fleet, is well known to all newspaper readers.

Admiral Beatty is known among the officers and men of the service as a quiet, kindly, scholarly man, who seemed peculiarly well suited by his assignment when he was placed in charge of the Naval Library in this city.

But Beatty's chief value to the navy has been as an expert on ordnance. As commandant of the navy yard at Washington and later as superintendent of the naval gun factory he had an opportunity to aid in making the big gun of the modern American warships the equal of any big gun in the world. He served as superintendent of the naval gun factory for more than two years, until his assignment to command a division of the Atlantic fleet in 1910.

Loughry, of Monticello, Ind., and is a graduate of West Point, class of 1906. He is now stationed at Fort Totten, New York.

WOULD ENJOIN ENFORCEMENT OF LAW.

New Orleans, Nov. 27.—The longstanding fight between the American Sugar Refining Company and the State of Louisiana is to have an airing in the United States district court here Monday. The court has fixed that day for hearing on a petition of the sugar refining company, seeking an injunction to restrain the state officials from enforcing the anti-trust law enacted by the Louisiana legislature in extraordinary session several months ago.
